Overview

Against a backdrop of unpredictable climate, trade wars, price volatility and regulatory changes, commodity-intensive businesses must rethink long-successful business models and practices. As the world becomes more digitized and infused with analytics and intelligence, we gain unprecedented freedom to automate business processes and link data, resources and talent.

Organizations continue to rely on siloed legacy systems, but these systems cannot keep pace with today's demands. An extensible cloud platform helps businesses create an agile, digital business – automating processes and delivering deeper insight so they can make better decisions for trading and risk, supply chain and financial management. A fully mobile platform enables insight and analytics on the go, ensuring you have the information you need whenever and wherever you need it.

Eka's Platform was built on a foundation of automated workflows that integrate advanced analytics, persona-based discovery boards and seamless integration of data with connectors from a myriad of sources that support the business of trading and risk, supply chain and financial management. We support a broad set of asset classes with specific solutions that are supported by over 50 applications in the Eka App Store.

Eka delivers

Eka's modern platform delivers one common user experience and one enterprise grade security model, all supported by one integrated source of data. The benefits are significant for businesses, control and flexibility, faster time to value, better insight from data, a secure platform and one UI across devices.

Cloud foundation

Eka Cloud Platform

Eka's one platform is helping companies accelerate digital transformation by turning ideas into powerful applications. Helping them digitize and visualize business process across supply chains from producer to manufacturing to the end user.

Extend your value chain data with powerful enterprise applications

Unlock the value of your data from sourcing to trading and risk, supply chain and financial management with 50+ mobile applications.

Analytics for better visibility and faster decisions

Perform on demand analysis using trusted data with custom dashboards, drill downs, visualizations and embedded machine learning algorithms for anomaly detection.

Automate business processes faster

One platform makes it easier to transform complex processes into applications. Built-in schedulers, workflow engine and custom applications help drive productivity.

Integrate data and systems

20+ built-in connectors and open APIs enable you to easily bring external data from ERP systems and other sources including market, weather, compliance and your database.

Single open cloud platform

Low code/no code automation

Common data model

Role based data-driven insights

Mobile engagement, access everywhere

Security

Eka's platform complies with industry standard security guidelines, including SOC 2 Type I, SOC 2 Type II & GDPR. It has single sign-on via industry standard authentication protocols, encryption of data in transit and at REST, and is integrated with best-in-class DLP, EMM and archival partners. It has been validated under Veracode Verified Standard status.

"As a young, rapidly growing company, we knew we needed a commodity management solution that could support our current trading operations and scale with us as we grew. We went live with Eka's digital platform in just 12 weeks."
